

Manuscript Editing Services

Below is a listing of some businesses/organizations that provide editorial services for manuscripts addressing the geosciences. The JEEG editorial staff highly recommends the use of an editorial service for those authors (both English speaking and foreign) who are not comfortable with the complexities of the English language when applied to scientific writing. A well-written manuscript aids in reducing the time a manuscript spends in the review process. Neither the JEEG staff nor EEGS endorses or takes any responsibility for any of the editing service companies listed below. Their use does not guarantee acceptance of a manuscript for publication.
